

Maggie Klinedinst manages North American Agency, Letter of Credit, and Cash operations within the Global Loans Services organization at Morgan Stanley. Prior to joining Morgan Stanley in 2017, Maggie managed a behavioral psychopharmacology research lab at Johns Hopkins University, which means she studied how drugs affect the human brain and behavior.

She completed her MBA at the Johns Hopkins University Carey School of Business and lives in Baltimore, Maryland.