

Matthew-James Moore has over 20 years of experience in the financial services industry, held positions in Retail Banking Operations, Investment Banking Operations, Non-Financial Risk Management and Finance at JPMorganChase and Deutsche Bank. His experience has provided him a unique perspective on the operational challenges within the financial services industry.

He now spends his time supporting the Americas Region at Deutsche Bank where he leads a regional team focused on transaction processing, third party, data, information technology and security non-financial risks.